AS VICTORIA ADVANCES THE EAGLE GOLD MINE, SOON TO BE THE YUKON'S NEXT AND LARGEST GOLD MINE, the company is continually strengthening its invaluable team of employees. With so many talented individuals and success stories to profile; as the Victoria employee roster has grown by ten-fold over the past year; the company is pleased to highlight some of our staff that are helping the mine come to life.

Working on and around mines for the past eight years has positioned Red Seal Journeyman Electrician Jesse Peck perfectly for his role as Maintenance Electrician at the mine. "From construction, through to maintenance I have seen all stages of mining and mine development," says Jesse, who came onboard in March. "I love the pressure of keeping a mine online and producing as efficiently as possible."

Human Resources Coordinator Lisa Eddyvean was hired by Victoria this past February. "Hearing people's backgrounds and accomplishments and the challenges they may have overcome, as everyone is so unique, always amazes me," says Lisa. "My job is truly satisfying when I can help someone and one of the main reasons I pursued a career in Human Resources."

Journeyman Warehouseperson Ryan Faulds has been with Victoria since April. He is skilled in equipment operation, warehousing, procurement and mine rescue operations. "My job gives me such satisfaction as it allows me to contribute to the productivity of mine operations, maintenance, finance and reporting goals through the timely supply of materials to all departments," says Ryan.

Gold Recovery Plant Operator Keith Jellis ensures the safety of the heap leach facility (HLF) to leach Eagle Gold Mine's gold. He is driven by the pride of the end product. "It's a big team effort to work in a safe, environmentally responsible and efficient way," says Keith.

After more than two decades as a heavy equipment operator in the placer, quartz and oil sands mining industries both in and beyond the territory, Jason Wyatt is thrilled to be home in the Yukon and provide his wealth of experience to the Eagle Gold Mine. Says Jason, "I am exactly where I want to be both personally and professionally."
